Anderson's Public Service Commende

The Following Is An Editorial From

THE RECORD-ADVERTISER, Halifax - October 14, 1971

When Dr. J. D. Hagood decided to retire from the State Senate earlier this year, Delegate Howard P. Anderson immediately appeared to many of us in Southside Virginia as Dr. Hagood's logical successor. Mr. Anderson grew up in the school of conservative politics under such able teachers as Bill Tuck and Dr. Hagood, and he has proven an apt pupil.

Mr. Anderson was first elected to the House of Delegates in 1958 to succeed Roy B. Davis Sr., a long-time representative of Halifax County and a highly respected member of the General Assembly. His record in the House during the past 13 years speaks for itself.

First and foremost we would mention Mr. Anderson's fight for the tobacco farmer in opposing taxes on tobacco products. Since the tobacco-growing area is represented by a small minority in the General Assembly, Mr. Anderson's fight has not been entirely successful. At the same time, we can be certain that tobacco taxes would have been considerably higher today but for the efforts of Howard Anderson in the House and Dr. Hagood in the Senate.

Equally important and more successful has been Mr. Anderson's campaign for highway safety. He was chief patron of the "impaired driving" law, which has resulted in the conviction of drivers who obviously were under the influence but who would have gone scot-free under the .15 per cent drunk driving law. He was co-sponsor of the "implied consent" bill, another measure designed to crack down on the drunk driver. And he was co-sponsor of the habitual offender act, which has resulted in the removal of potential killer from the highways.

Mr. Anderson served on the Study Commission on Technical Education, and was co-sponsor of legislation which led to the community college system, important from the standpoint of education itself as well as in upgrading the income of this area and the state and in attracting more industry. He was also sponsor of legislation enabling localities to set up industrial development authorities.

Throughout his legislative career, he has espoused economy in government and opposed higher taxes. He put up a gallant fight against abandoning Virginia's pay-as-you go policy.

Voters, therefore, do not have to depend upon words and promises in evaluating the candidacy of Howard P. Anderson. We know his record in the House of Delegates, and his experience there has certainly equipped him to serve this area of the state in the Senate.

We hope that voters of his native Halifax County will turn out in record numbers to send him to the Senate November 2.

The above editorial points out the outstanding record of accomplishments of Howard P. Anderson and demonstrates why he should be elected to the Senate on November 2nd.

McCormick then scored from the 12 to make it 21-0 as Chandler booted his third extra point, with 2:15 left in the third quarter.

The Raiders then had a drive going in the fourth quarter but had to punt. A bad snap from center went over Wilkerson's head and he recovered on the 11 yard line of Appomattox and the Golden Eagles took over. It took only two plays for them to score as quarterback Terry Mullins hit Chris Keen from eight yards out for the score with 6:07 left in the game. The run for the extra point failed and it was 21-6 favor of Appomattox. The Golden Eagles hopes were not dead as on the next series of Raiders downs, they fumbled and SR got the ball back when Craig Ashwell recovered on the SR 48. They could not move the ball against the Raiders and had to punt and as the clock ran out Lee Conner ended all the SR hopes as he recovered a fumble on the SR 46 and then Appomattox ran the clock out.

Mike McCormick, besides scoring two touchdowns, also had one of his best night rushing as he gained 156 yards in 27 carries, good for almost six yards per carry. Jimmy Chandler also had a fine night rushing as his average was about the same as McCormick's, but he carried the ball only 16 times for 88 yards. Jimmy is to be credited also with some nice offensive blocking as he took would be tacklers out on several plays.

Lee Conner, Robert Thornton and Steve Lawson were the leaders on the defense, Conner had six tackles and some assist. He also threw some nice blocks on offense that got the runners some extra yards. Thornton had five tackles and three assist and Steve Lawson played as he did last year since recovering from a knee operation. He had 5 ve tackles and two assist and constantly broke in to put pressure on the SR offensive backfield. Billy Guthrie, Phillip Goode and Steve Almond each had three tackles and were in on many more.

Robert Murphy, a 5'3" pounder, was the leading ground gainer for SR with 61 yards in 13 carries and his speed made him a threat everytime he ran the ball.

The SR defense was led by Terry Overstreet, Dennis Turner, Travis Crider and Tony Garrett. These four combined for about 75% of the SR tackles.

Appomattox practically dominated the game in all department and except for the one big mistake, they probably would have had a shutout.

The Raiders take on the William Campbell Generals Friday in another Seminole District game at William Campbell.

What's In 'Canteen Fund'

What's in the 'Canteen Fund'. This is the fund raised through group effort by the Appomattox County Rescue Squad.

NOT ONE PENNY of the 'Canteen Fund' comes from the annual drive in October (This year a $10,000 goal.) The 'Canteen Fund' is a separate package, altogether. Through it, Squadmen have in the past arranged a dinner so that they can honor individuals in the community who have helped the Squad, and the county through support of Rescue Squad activities.

Food sales at ball games, drink sales by the Squad members to themselves at the Squad building and other means are used to raise funds for this. Certain improvements to the Squad building, itself, are paid for out of the 'Canteen Fund.' When the October drive is over, you'll be hearing more about the Squadmen and women who give their time TWO or THREE times - first in service "on call" for stand-bys and emergencies, second, in canvassing for funds each October, and thirdly, in independent projects throughout the year to raise funds so that they can provide nice facilities at the Squad building for other people and groups to enjoy and an annual dinner for relaxation - for celebration of goals they have met and to honor others, who like themselves, are interested in saving lives and making lives of others more worth living.

That annual dinner is for the installation of new officers, too insuring continuity to the Squad program and continuing good service for the people of Appomattox.
